Frank's Lawyers Hear Confession Witnesses Now Repudiate Stories

Attorneys Give Out Statement in Which They Declare That They Believed Ragsdale and Barber Were Telling the Truth.

SHOW HOW AFFIDAVITS WERE SECURED BY THEM

"If These Rumors Be True, We Denounce the Perfidy of These Men With All the Vehemence of Our Nature," They Say in Card.

The report current in Atlanta yesterday that Rev. C. B. Ragsdale, the minister who accuses Jim Conroy of having confessed to Mary Phagan's murder, and that E. L. Barber, the member of Ragsdale's flock, who corroborated the pastor's story, had repudiated their stories, and had branded them as "frame-ups" last night, resulted in a sensational statement to The Constitution from Frank's counsel.

His attorneys also presented affidavits from Dr. J. M. Pierce and John E. White, who had vouched for Frank's defense for the character of Ragsdale, and similar affidavits from George E. Knott, who had testified to the character of Barber.

Rumors were persistent on Monday that there would be startling developments in the Ragsdale and Barber affidavits, but Solicitor Doney absolutely refused to discuss the matter, declaring that all developments would be made public on Friday. When the card of Frank's lawyers was furnished The Constitution it was so late at night that it was impossible to reach either Rev. Mr. Ragsdale or Mr. Barber for a statement.

Frank's counsel's statement follows:

Frank's Lawyers' Statement.

Editor Constitution: On Thursday, April 23, 1914, there appeared at the office of L. Z. Rosser, in the Grant building, two men who professed to have important information in reference to the Frank trial. One of these represented himself to be a preacher and the other a former member of his flock.

These two men were unknown to each of us. Neither of us had ever seen or heard of them before.

L. Z. Rosser acted in taking the affidavits of these men. He put them to the test of the most thorough cross-examination of which he was capable. There was no effort to lead them, to add to or color their story. On the contrary, they were given every opportunity to deny anything they were not saying and to explain anything they were saying. They gave promptly and accurately the names of their friends and associates, as the affidavits required. They gave promptly some of the most correct and upright men in the city of Atlanta.

Some of these men were promptly seen in an effort to determine whether they were what they seemed and represented themselves to be. The result was in keeping with their claims. Some of the best men in Atlanta vouched for them and we felt justified in presenting their story to the court.

It has come to our ears this evening that both these men now recant and claim they framed up their story.

We will denounce the perfidy of these men with all the vehemence of our nature.

In this Frank case we have never wanted anything but the truth, have never made use of anything but what was believed to be the truth.

We have believed and now profoundly believe in Frank's innocence, but even that conviction has never induced us to say one word that the whole city of Atlanta could not hear, nor to do anything that the whole state of Georgia could not see.

If these rumors are true we will at once do these perjured witnesses out of this case, just as we have in the past, and just as we will in the future every fact and circumstance that even squints at unfairness or perjury.

In proof that we did not act even credulously and involuntarily in this matter we send you herewith copies of affidavits of men who vouch for the character of these men.

THOUSANDS CROWD GREAT AUDITORIUM FOR FIRST OPERA

Every Section of Georgia and the Majority of Southern States Represented in the Audience.

GREAT THROU THRILLED BY MASSENET'S "MANON"

Caruso, Farrar and Gilly Were Given Ovation for Their Wonderful Work in Opera.

TUESDAY MATINEE.
"Il Trovatore," opera in four acts, by Giuseppe Verdi.
THE CAST.
Lenora (soprano), Johanna Gadski.
Azucena (contralto), Margaret Ober.
Inez (contralto), Marie Mattfeldt.
Manrico (tenor), Riccardo Martin.
Count di Luna (baritone), Pasquale Amato.
Ferrando (basso), Giulio Rossi.
Ruis (tenor), Angelo Bossa.
Conductor—Richard Hageman.

By Sidney Ormond.
Massenet's "Manon," most delicate and exquisite of operas, reeking of the picturesque eighteenth century, redolent of the pain and anguish which is ever the accompaniment of illicit love, was the magnet which, almost seemed, drew all Georgia and a large part of the southern states to the Auditorium last night and ushered in the fifth year of metropolitan grand opera in Atlanta.

It was, many claimed, the largest opening night audience which has heard grand opera in Atlanta, which is another way of saying that it was the largest opening night audience that ever heard grand opera anywhere, for Atlanta holds the world's record for grand opera attendance.

All Georgia Here.
As one stood in the lobby and watched the crowd file in, he found himself bowing to people from all parts of the state—people he had not seen in years. There were folk from Savannah, from Athens, from Macon, from Augusta, from Valdosta, from Cartersville, from Gainesville, from Rome, from every city and town and crossroads in the state. Well dressed, prosperous people, all of them—people to whom opera is no longer a novelty, but, from a cultural standpoint, a necessity, something to be missed under no circumstances. And it was not an audience which went for the purpose of seeing or being seen. It was composed of people who have studied and improved their musical taste, people to whom the finer shades of opera have a definite meaning. It was an audience that discussed Massenet's music between acts and discussed it with discrimination compared the "Manon" of Massenet to the "Manon" of Puccini and argued the points of difference intelligently.

Withal, it was a gathering which bespoke volumes for the culture of Atlanta and of the south.

Enormous Crowd Gathered.
Long before 8 o'clock when the curtain was scheduled to go up, Peachtree street was choked from curb to curb with machines of every known variety and make. The noise was that of hell, horns broke loose and bell bent. Horns honked hoarsely, whistles blew, strings shrieked, bells tinkled and loud voices commanded folk to stand aside. The stream of automobiles seemed interminable. One wondered if there was a man in all this wide city who did not own one. It seemed that there was an automobile for every man, woman and child listed in the city directory. On and on they came, finally emptying their loads of gaily-dressed women and correctly garbed men at the Auditorium.

The interior of the Auditorium presented a typical first-night appearance. If you have ever been to grand opera that statement conveys a definite idea to your mind. If you have never attended grand opera at the Auditorium no amount of description would serve to picture the scene at all adequately.

The audience, with its thousands of beautiful women dressed in stunning gowns of all imaginable hues, looked from a distance like some wonderful

MEXICAN-AMERICANS FOR WILSON'S STAND
San Antonio, Texas, April 27.—Unqualified indorsement of President Wilson's stand in the present crisis is contained in a telegram sent him from here today and signed by fifty Mexican citizens of the United States residing in San Antonio. They offer their personal services in the even war he waged against Huerta. The text of the telegram follows:

"We, the undersigned Texas-Mexican Americans approve your patriotic stand against Huerta, and offer you our personal services in the present conflict and insist that the Stars and Stripes must be respected, otherwise we are ready to sacrifice our lives for the honor and dignity of our country."

There is a shortage, it is said, of $27,000. Further examination may determine when and how the shortage occurred.

ATHENS BANK PLACED IN EXAMINER'S HANDS
Athens, Ga., April 28.—(Special.)—At 2 o'clock this morning the stockholders of the Citizens' Bank and Trust Company, announced that the institution will be placed in the hands of a state bank examiner immediately. They state depositors and other creditors will be paid in full.

There is a shortage, it is said, of $27,000. Further examination may determine when and how the shortage occurred.

THEY SING AT OPERA TODAY

Top row: Johanna Gadski and Pasquale Amato. Bottom: Riccardo Martin. They will sing in "Trovatore" this afternoon.

If You Went to Grady

Don't imagine that Grady's inefficiency can never affect you personally because you can pay for treatment in a private hospital. Tomorrow should you be injured so that you were not recognized, or could not speak, you would land at the Grady hospital and become the victim of conditions worse than Charles Dickens ever described. There are thousands of people in Atlanta just as good as you who can never hope to escape these conditions should emergency arise while they exist.

Ceilings are falling, floors are worn out, foundations are sinking, meals are being cooked in quarters in which hog food would not be prepared on many Georgia farms. Halls, aisles and porches are all crowded with occupied cots. White nurses sleep ten in a room, colored nurses sleep in the loft over the ambulance barn; all are striving to care for double the number of patients allowed in any other city hospital in the civilized world.

Atlanta is exceptionally provided with expensive private hospitals. It has but one refuge upon which any citizen without distinction or price may depend. The poor, the humble, the average citizen has a right to this public service. You have a right to demand at public expense every scientific advantage which wealth may secure in private institutions.

Your vote for hospital bonds in the coming election is the remedy. A bond issue is your protection should misfortune call, "Your turn next."

SHERIFF OF FLOYD SHOTS OPPONENT ON ELECTION EVE

Deputy Sheriff G. W. Smith, on Rival Political Ticket, Is Critically Wounded by W. G. Dunehoo.

Rome, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—As the result of a personal encounter due to political differences, Sheriff W. G. Dunehoo, of Floyd county, tonight shot through the intestines Deputy Sheriff G. W. Smith, who is at a local hospital in a critical condition. Dunehoo was immediately taken into custody by Coroner John Miller, and his son, Henry Dunehoo, who is said to have taken part in the affair, is also under arrest.

Dunehoo was a candidate for re-election, and Smith was on the opposing ticket, headed by J. R. Barron, another deputy sheriff.

The affair created a tremendous excitement here and will prove a factor in tomorrow's primary.

Card Causes Trouble.
Dunehoo interpreted portions of the card, as he termed it, "a blow below the belt." When the two men met at the jail this afternoon a dispute arose, the he was passed, and Smith knocked Dunehoo down.

The younger Dunehoo then took a hand in the affair, and Smith ran or was thrown from the jail and fled to the rear of the jail yard. There were several eye-witnesses, whose accounts differ in important particulars, but according to the best information, Smith slammed shut a gate in the jail fence in the face of Dunehoo, who was pursuing him.

Dunehoo shot through the gate and the bullet passed through the gate and into Smith's body, making four perforations in his intestines. Smith also has a deep gash in the back of the head. Dunehoo has an abrasion of the scalp, a badly swollen eye and scratches about the ear.

Classes Ret-Defense.
The sheriff says he shot in self-defense after the deputy had attempted to shoot him. The friends of the wounded man claim that the two Dunehoo's attacked him.

The affair created a tremendous excitement here and will prove a factor in tomorrow's primary.

Tonight hundreds of men are gathered in the streets in front of the jail and the hospital where Smith and Dunehoo are. There has been some talk of violence, but officers seem to have the situation well in hand, and no trouble is anticipated.

Acceptance by Dictator Creates a Distinct Hope That War May Be Averted

All Latin-America and Great Powers of Europe Brought Pressure on Huerta—Understood That United States Will Insist on Huerta's Elimination.

Washington, April 27.—Formal acceptance by the Huerta government of the offer of Argentina, Brazil and Chile to use their good offices to bring about an amicable settlement of difficulty between the United States and Mexico was cabled to Spanish Ambassador Riano here tonight by Portillo y Rojas, foreign minister in the Huerta cabinet.

Senor Rojas' note was transmitted at once to the three South American diplomats, who began a conference which lasted far into the night discussing the next move in their peace plan. Secretary of State Bryan having accepted the offer of good offices when tendered the United States Saturday, the first step now is completed and the way paved for actual negotiations looking to a peaceful clearing up of the situation.

Neither Ambassador Riano nor the peace envoys would make public the text of the Huerta acceptance. It was said, however, that Senor Rojas replied briefly, accepting the offer and thanking the South American plenipotentiaries and the Spanish ambassador for their good offices, with a reference to "the real spirit of solidarity between peoples of a same race."

HARRIS SOUNDING STATE COMMITTEE

Chairman Proposes Another Meeting to Change Rules in View of Many Candidates.

By John Corrigan, Jr.
Washington, April 27.—(Special.)—William J. Harris, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, has written to all the members of the committee suggesting another meeting to take further action in view of the large number of candidates in the race for governor and senator.

When the committee meets, if Mr. Harris is still in the race for governor, as he expects to be, he will tender his resignation as member and will not take part in its proceedings. The possibility of the governor and senator being named in the next state convention instead of by the people at the ballot box is something that Mr. Harris believes the committee should seriously consider.

Heretofore when there have been only two or three candidates the situation was different from that presented by the present contest in which there are eight or ten applicants.

For Second Primary.
In speaking of the matter tonight, Mr. Harris said that in South Carolina, Alabama and some other states a second primary is held, in which the two highest candidates in the first primary run again. This insures the fact that the successful man will be the choice of a majority of the people.

"I think at this time when the lease of the Western and Atlantic railroad is to be renewed it is most important that the governor should be the choice of the people rather than the choice of a convention," said Mr. Harris. "Laws can be changed at any time, and even a constitutional amendment can be submitted by any legislature, but a contract entered into for the lease of the state road will hold for twenty-five years. These funds go to the state schools."

"Since the state convention will be made up of elected men, the governor, he will have too much power in the selection of a senator. I have no plan to propose to the committee, but I only suggest that they meet again to consider these facts."

Majority to Rule.
"I am in somewhat of an embarrassing position in this matter in view of my own prospective candidacy, but I felt it my duty to do so, as I believe the party would be hurt if in this day of popular elections a man should be chosen for governor by the convention who was not acceptable to a majority of the people."

Proposal.
"Of course, a proposal that the majority should elect cannot be said to be in the interest of any candidate."

"I have no plan of my own, and either the county unit plan or some other that would insure a majority vote electing the governor will be acceptable to me. I have asked the committee to state their wishes about another meeting and the date it should be held."

C. F. von BERRMANN, Section Director.

NO CONDITIONS IN GOOD OFFICES.

No conditions are imposed in an offer of good offices, consequently the reply from Mexico City was not expected to deal with conditions. That stage will be reached when the peace makers formulate their plans and make known how they propose to use the good offices which have been accepted.

It was suggested tonight that they probably would ask the Washington and Mexico City governments tomorrow for statements as to what each would demand in the event formal mediation were undertaken, and that upon the nature of the responses to this request would depend the proposals next to be submitted.

Unofficial advices from Mexico City already had made it virtually certain that General Huerta would accept the offer of the peace envoys, but the formal announcement tonight tended to further relieve the slackening tension of the crisis. The news was given to President Wilson, who expressed himself as greatly pleased though he would make no further comment.

White house officials let it be known that they were earnestly desirous of aiding the South American diplomats and that no announcements as to points that would be insisted upon by the United States would be made or anything else done at this time which might embarrass their efforts

Throughout official and diplomatic circles the belief was expressed that success of the peacemakers so far necessarily would have a favorable effect upon the situation, that even though their efforts ultimately failed, indirect diplomatic communication between the United States and the Huerta government has been restored temporarily and the chance of a better understanding greatly improved

CAUSED FEELING OF DISTINCT HOPE.

The success of the first steps toward mediation—the prompt acceptance by the United States and the announcement of the Spanish ambassador that Huerta had accepted the tender of good offices—produced a feeling of distinct hope which was reflected not only in administration quarters but in congress where "war talk" gave way to a spirit of conciliation

Throughout the day the three South American envoys who have undertaken the task of mediation held frequent conferences to arrange the preliminaries of procedure

Pressure from Germany Great Britain and France advising Huerta

to accept the first steps toward mediation and the approving attitude of Latin-American countries to the settlement of the controversy by pan-American diplomacy emphasized the world-wide influences which are working to bring about peace

Meanwhile the navy and war departments are continuing their efforts to speed up the machinery of the army and navy for any unexpected turn in events

Secretary Daniels announced he had telegraphed the full text of the mediation offer and its acceptance by the United States to both Rear Admirals Badger and Howard, with instructions to have the commanders of all ships on the east and west coasts spread the news throughout Mexico

NO AMERICANS KILLED OR INJURED.

Secretary Bryan said he was able, after receiving information through embassies and legations to say that no American had been killed or injured since the crisis of the last two weeks began, and that though many had been detained at Agua Calientes, Cordoba, Orizaba efforts were now being made to obtain their release

Order prevails in Vera Cruz Brigadier General Funston and the army is expected to be in command of the situation tomorrow Expeditionary forces of marines have been detached from the command of Admiral Fletcher and will return in a few days to the fleet with the marine guards

Secretary Bryan announced that the president's recent message to congress and with full text of the correspondence between Argentina, Brazil and Chile had not been received at the South American capitals and that had it gotten to Montevideo Uruguay, Chile and the Argentine Republic

The consensus of opinion in Latin America is that the action of Argentina and Chile in many respects is the most significant and far-reaching event in the history of the American republic since the adoption of the Monroe doctrine and it is hoped that the press and people of the United States will try to curb the rising war spirit and give the mediating efforts strong moral support in their efforts for peace

WILSON RESOLVED HUERTA MUST GO.

While Secretary Bryan and government officials expressed a disinclination to discuss the mediation plan during its present stage, they said it had been the point of actual "proposals" The American government simply has expressed formally its willingness to accept the mediation plan

The attitude of the administration long has been established that the elimination of Huerta was an essential to any final settlement of the Mexican problem This view was reiterated recently as Saturday at the white house when senators and representatives were consulted as to the proposed plan of the South American envoys

While the Latin-American envoys bent their energies today toward negotiations any peace, the war and navy departments directed their activities toward bringing American troops to Mexico and finally the transfer of the situation at Vera Cruz from the navy to the army with the arrival of the general Funston and his army brigade

REASSURING NEWS AS TO REFUGEES.

Throughout the day, in consular dispatches to the state department and in reports from the naval commanders in Mexican waters, came reassuring messages as to American refugees Arrangements were completed for getting all Americans out of Mexico City, and consular orders were issued for resuming train service between Mexico City and Vera Cruz

Partial lists of Americans held at Agua Calientes, Orizaba, Cordoba and Vera Cruz but he was unable to give any information as to how they were being treated

Secretary Bryan secured permission from the Mexican government to take refuge in the United States, although this will necessitate a suspension of the United States' right to reach Vera Cruz in various vessels

While in agreement was supplanted by a spirit of conciliation pending the mediation negotiations with Mexico, the way was cleared for the house, mostly along political lines, but the undercurrent of gossip which has been going on since the president's statement that the president should adopt extreme measures, almost disappeared during the day's session of the house

The prevailing sentiment at the capitol today is that the president should have full opportunity to work out the mediation program

TWO IMPORTANT POINTS WON BY THE RAILROADS

Washington, April 27—Railroads won two important points in personal injury suits today in the supreme court The court held that the federal employers liability law of 1908 makes railroads absolutely liable if they are violating a law at the time an employee is injured, the word "law" meant "federal" and not state law

The court also decided that a man injured while engaged in switching interstate cars does not come within the federal employers liability act, though the next thing he was to do constituted an act of interstate commerce

WILSON CONGRATULATED BY THE PEACE BUREAU

Washington, April 27.—President Wilson tonight received from the international peace bureau of Brussels a cablegram congratulating the United States on accepting mediation in the Mexican dispute. The cablegram lauds the United States as "leader in the cause of universal peace."

VILLA MAKES FOR PEACE, SAYS CONGRESSMAN KENT

Washington, April 27.—"One strong man, General Villa, stands between us and war," Representative Kent of California, today in the house

"He is a bandit, to be sure, but he has proven himself a great leader, growing not only in power, but in understanding of what the world demands. We must choose whether we are willing to accept this man's services or declare war."

Representative Mendell, of Wyoming, criticized Consul Canada at Vera Cruz for statements he had sent out in regard to conditions in Mexico, which Mr. Mendell charged were attempts to inflame the American people against Mexico.

In Massenet's "Manon Lescaut" Farrar, Caruso and Gilly Score Artistic and Musical Triumph

By Irma Dooley.
Farrar, Caruso and Gilly were more than artists in their brilliant interpretation of Massenet's great opera, "Manon Lescaut," in which he has told the tragic story by Abbe Prevost, in a poetry of music powerful in thought and dignity. There was genius in the work of these three stars shining now so radiantly in the world of music.

One moment Miss Farrar held her audience in a powerful sway with the beauty of her voice, the next moment there blended with it the almost superhuman tenderness of Caruso's great voice, and then there entered the harmony of the ensemble the deep musical notes of Gilly's wonderful baritone—with the orchestra carrying the trio under the unrivaled directorship of Toscanini.

From the moment the curtain rose until the last scene, where the wrecked little body and soul of Manon lay prostrate in her lover's arms, there was not a break in the great union of forces, which there must be to complete the music drama, the opera is.

Farrar's Perfect Art.
Though intellect and a broad knowledge of the drama and music have at all times been the accompaniment of Miss Farrar's success, with her voice of exquisite purity and sweetness, there was a mastery in her conception of Manon last night that caused her admirers to declare that never had her accomplishment reached the degree of perfection which distinguished her performance last evening. Though giving to the role a creative touch—an expression of her own genius, she never failed in her appreciation of and devotion to the dignity and reserve of Massenet's music. Her singing, her acting, reflected the subtlety and delicacy with which the composer's music sounds the intensest of human emotions.

Her work in the first act portrayed all the spirit, simplicity, consciousness and vanity of the wayward school girl awaiting adventure and conquest.

Abandon came in the second act when her voice and dramatic art began a powerful appeal, and she was all her lover sang: "She has grace, radiant youth and beauty, music flows in a stream from her eyes, her eyes shine the tender light of love."

Perfect Witchery.
In the great act where she goes to renew her conquest of des Grieux in the monastery of St. Surplice, Miss Farrar's work was a masterpiece. She called one of the greatest actresses, as well as one of the greatest musical artists.

With the passion for des Grieux always dominant, and the fear that she had lost his love, she reached for him with all the fervor of a woman's love, and the co-tesan's witchery, and made the conquest of his very soul, as he struggled to keep her.

Caruso Given Ovation.
The ovation to Caruso, from the moment his great God-given voice sounded with the company in the arena until it stretched into her death-sleep the dying Manon, continued that ovation given him in New York Wednesday night, when he, Farrar and Scotti had forty curtain calls.

Few under the stars have ever heard the expression of his art—an art showing always the exquisite finish the French operatic style. He held his audience as delighted last night as he had left them when he sang the "Tales of Hoffmann," last year.

Leon Rother, as the Comte des Grieux, met every demand of the role, and his excellent work met ready response from the audience.

Pietro Anaman was the minkeeper, a role of which he made the best, and Leonora Rossini was the Countess. Bonsetta and Javotte, completed splendidly the all-star cast.

Honors and honors are ever due Toscanini, whose clear and bold leadership, heightened and tempered, illumined and shaded every line of the composer's music, and directed the final production of the opera.

Approved By All

We speak of the novel display we have arranged for opera week of that express the latest word of fashion.

The display will show the authoritative and authentic styles of the very moment.

It was arranged by our buyer—who has just returned from New York—through the co-operation of Estelle Mershon, 20 E. Forty-sixth St., New York. It is a display worthy of Paris, for the benefit of Atlanta women.

You are invited to attend, whether you have in mind the buying of hat and hair ornaments or not.

It will be of interest.

Hats for matinees and garden parties, hair ornaments for evening wear, the new diminutive flower baskets that are decidedly smart; corsage bouquets.

The New Piano Store will prove of interest to all lovers of music. A more elegant display of Grand, Upright and Player-Pianos could hardly be found.

MEXICAN PRISONERS MOVED FROM FT. BLISS

Washington, April 27.—Orders were issued by the war department today transferring the Mexican prisoners held at Fort Bliss, near El Paso, Texas, to Fort Wingate, N. M. The war department believed it necessary to move the prisoners further from the Mexican border in view of possible developments.

The Third squadron of the Twelfth cavalry, now at Fort Meade, S. D., will be sent to Fort Wingate to guard the prisoners.

The Mexicans, soldiers and other refugees, have been held at Fort Bliss since the United States had been seeking refuge on American soil after the battle of Ojinaga. The defeated federal army, pirated by the revolutionary constitutionalists, crossed the Rio Grande and were rounded up by the United States troops.

The prisoners will be entrained at El Paso and taken to Fort Wingate by the Twelfth infantry, which will accompany them to Fort Wingate and turn them over to the cavalry guard there.

Prisoners Number 4,900.
El Paso, Texas, April 27.—The Mexican federal prisoners now under guard at Fort Bliss, near here, number 4,900, of whom approximately 1,900 are women and children. The prisoners include General Mercado, Francisco Castaño, Blas Orjinal and Romero. General Jose Ynez Salazar, also confined with them, is under indictment by the United States on charges of violating the neutrality laws. He will be taken to Santa Fe for trial in May.

Castillo, said to have been chief of the bandits who set fire to the Cumbres tunnel, in which at least eleven Americans lost their lives, also is a prisoner at Fort Bliss.

JUDGE WESTMORELAND'S FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY

The funeral of Judge T. P. Westmoreland will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Trinity church, Rev. J. W. Lee, of St. Louis, assisted by Rev. Luke Johnson, pastor of Trinity, officiating.

Bishop C. K. Nelson, vice president of the Atlanta Medical college, of which Judge Westmoreland was a member of the board, requests all members to attend the services.

The Atlanta Bar association will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock in Judge Bell's courtroom and pass appropriate resolutions on the death of Judge Westmoreland, and name honorary pallbearers. All lawyers in the city are urged to be present.

Rev. W. P. Chevalier.

Rev. W. P. Chevalier, aged 62 years, died last night at 10 o'clock in a private sanitarium. The body was removed to Patterson's chapel, and funeral services will be held there at 2 o'clock at Moore Memorial church, Dr. A. R. Holderby officiating. Interment will be in Caswell cemetery. He is survived by his wife, one son, Stuart Chevalier, and a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Lee, of Atlanta.

Odd Facts About Mexico

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Mexico is officially called "Estados Unidos Mexicanos" and "Republica Mexicana." Mexico has an area of 767,290 square miles.

Surface

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) An immense elevated plateau, with a chain of mountains on its eastern and western margins, occupies the greater part of the country.

Rivers

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Mexico has no large rivers, only a few small streams flowing from the mountain slopes at the edge of the great plateau eastward to the gulf and westward to the Pacific.

Commerce

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Coastwise trade is principally under the Mexican flag, but the steamers are owned abroad.

Population

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) The population according to the most recent estimate is 15,003,207, giving an average of 19.6 inhabitants per square mile.

Railways

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) The total mileage of railways is 15,251, and that of telegraph lines 46,112.

Mining

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Mining is the most productive industry. Mines of some description are to be found in twenty-six of the thirty-one states and territories.

The City of Mexico

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Mexico City is 7,415 feet above sea level, and by rail 264 miles northwest of Vera Cruz.

Agriculture in Mexico

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) The agricultural resources of Mexico are large and unusually varied, as they comprise some of the cereals and other food products of the temperate zone, and most of the leading products of the tropics.

WHAT HAS BROUGHT ABOUT THE PRESENT CONDITION OF AFFAIRS IN MEXICO?

This Page contains a few Facts about Mexico from the many splendid Articles in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica. These Articles Cover in Great Detail, not only the Land and the People, the Resources, Finances and Institutions of the country, but the Political and Social Conditions from the Aboriginal Period to the Present Day, affording the Reader a Complete Grasp of the Conditions lying behind the troubles which have finally resulted in Armed Intervention by the United States.

Causes of the Present Revolution--The Privileged Classes Versus the People

(From the Encyclopaedia Britannica) "Thenceforward, till the second election of Porfirio Diaz to the presidency in 1884, the history of Mexico is one of almost continuous warfare, in which Maximilian's empire is a mere episode. The conflicts, which may at first sight seem to be merely between rival generals, are seen upon closer examination to be mainly (1) between the privileged classes, i. e., the church and (at times) the army, and the mass of the people, the former being identical with the army, the church, and the supporters of despotism, while the latter represent the desire for republicanism and local self-government. Similar conflicts are exhibited, though less continuously, by most of the other Spanish-American states.

Did the Mexican Aborigines Come From Asia?

(From the Encyclopaedia Britannica) "The original peopling of America might then well date from the time when there was continuous land between it and Asia. At all times communication has been open from East Asia, and even the South Sea Islands, to the west coast of America. The importance of this is evident when we consider that late in the nineteenth century Japanese junk still drifted over by the ocean current to California at the rate of about one a year, often with a crew of the crew still alive.

Mixed Blood in Mexico

(From the Encyclopaedia Britannica Article, MEXICO) "As the Spanish conquerors brought few women, there was much mixture of races. Among the pure whites—who were practically all of Spanish extraction—there were two well-defined classes, the Gachupines or chapetones, Spaniards born in Europe, said to be so named in allusion to their spurs, from "Aztec words meaning 'prickers with the foot,' and the native-born or creoles; the former, though a small minority, had almost all the higher positions both in the public services and in commerce. Besides these there were five well-defined castes: "mestizos (Indian and white); mulattoes (negro and white); "zambos (negro and Indian), who were regarded as specially vicious and dangerous; native Indians and negroes. But there were about a dozen intermediate named varieties, of which the "safo-atas (tending away from white) and tente an [aire (tending towards white) may be mentioned; and many of the last named eventually passed into the Creole class, sometimes by the decree of a court. The fact that the trade route to Manila passed through Vera Cruz, Mexico City and Acapulco entailed the settlement also of a few Chinese and Malays, chiefly on the Pacific coast.

Characteristics of the Native Population

(From the Encyclopaedia Britannica) "The native population of the plateau of Mexico, mainly "Aztecs, may still be seen by thousands without any trace of mixture of European blood. Their stature is estimated to be about 5 ft 3 in, but they are of muscular and sturdy build. Measurements of their skulls show them mesocephalic (index about 78), or intermediate between the dolichocephalic and brachycephalic types of mankind. The face is oval, with low forehead, high cheek-bones, long eyes sloping outward toward the temples, fleshy lips, nose wide and in some cases flatish but in others aquiline, coarsely molded features, with a stolid and gloomy expression. Thickness of skin, masking the muscles, has been thought the cause of a peculiar heaviness in the outlines of body and face; the complexion varies from yellow-brown to chocolate (about 40 to 43 in the anthropological scale); eyes black; straight coarse glossy black hair; beard and moustache scanty.

52 Dictators, Presidents and Rulers in 59 Years

(From the Encyclopaedia Britannica Article, PORFIRIO DIAZ) His term of office marks a prominent change in the history of Mexico, from that date he at once forged ahead with financial and political reform, the scrupulous settlement of all national debts, the welding together of the peoples and tribes (there are 150 different Indian tribes) of his country, the establishment of railroads and telegraphs, and all this in a land which had been upheaved for a century with revolutions and bloodshed, and which had fifty-two dictators, presidents and rulers in fifty-nine years.

Every Other Subject of Human Interest is covered in the new Britannica with the same comprehensive detail and authority as in the great article on Mexico. You owe it to yourself to investigate this work before its prices are advanced on May 28 next. Every one who wishes to keep up-to-date should have this incomparable work. More than 60,000 sets have already been sold. (1) It is a complete exposition and detailed summary of the world's work and progress. (2) An inventory of extant knowledge reduced to an A B C simplicity of arrangement, and (3) An index to recondite not less than to all common things that can possibly interest or concern a civilized people. You need only pay $5.00 down and we will send you complete set—29 volumes—containing 40,000 articles, 44,000,000 words of text, written by 1,500 specialists, dealing with half a million topics.

Climate

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Mexico stretches across 17 parallels of latitude, with the Tropic of Cancer crossing the territory about midway, thus placing it in the tropical and sub-tropical regions. The great central plateau carries temperate and sub-tropical conditions over much the greater part of the republic. The temperature rises steadily as one descends to the lowlands on either side of the plateau, until the upper limit of the tropical region, called "tierras calientes," is reached, where the climate is hot, humid and unhealthy, as elsewhere in the forested coastal plains of tropical America. Here the temperature often rises to 105 degrees, and in the sultry districts of Vera Cruz, Guaymas and Acapulco to and even above 110 degrees.

Products of the Soil

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "An important product of the plateau and of the open districts of the tierras calientes, growing in the most arid places, is the 'nopai' or prickly pear 'cactus'. Its fruit, called 'tuna' by the natives, is refreshing and wholesome, and is a staple food in spite of its spiny covering. In the tierras calientes of Mexico, however, better conditions prevail. A fertile soil, abundant rainfall and high temperatures have covered these mountain slopes and lowland plains with a wealth of vegetation. The problem for the agriculturist here is not irrigation, but drainage and keeping down spontaneous growths. In these regions sugar, tobacco, indigo, cacao, rice, sweet potatoes, alfalfa, beans and cassava are produced, and Indian corn yields two and three crops a year. Fruits also are plentiful, both wild and cultivated. Among them are the banana, plantain, guava, chili pepper, olive, cocoyuz, orange, lemon, lime, mango, pomegranate, pineapples, pineapple (wild and cultivated), guava, anacardium, chirimoya, guava, gourd, melon, guava, ciruela (plum), and the several 'zapote' fruits, including 'chico zapote' from the Acahuapota, which produces the 'chicle' or 'chicle-gum' of commerce, 'zapote blanco', 'zapote-barracho' (or 'amarillo'), 'zapote-prieto' (or 'negro') and 'zapote-mamey'.

Ants That Destroy Trees

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "An interesting species is the 'leaf-cutting ant', which lives in large underground colonies and feeds upon a fungus produced by leaf-cuttings stored in subterranean passages to promote fermentation. These ants will strip a tree in a few hours, and are very destructive to fruit plantations. Some of the native trees have developed ingenious methods of defense one of which is that of attracting small colonies of another species to drive away the marauders. Most destructive, also, are the termites, or white ants, whose ravages are to be seen in the crumbling woodwork and furniture of all habitations in the hot zones. Some species build their nests in trees—great globular masses sometimes three feet in diameter, supported on the larger branches, and connected with the ground by covered passages on the outside of the tree. These insects are blind and avoid the light. Bees find a highly congenial habitat in Mexico, and some honey is exported. Spiders are also represented by a large number of genera and species, the most dreaded being the 'venomous tarantula' and the 'savage mygalae'.

The "Hot Lands"

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "The tierras calientes (hot lands) of Mexico include the two coastal zones, the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, the states of Tabasco, Campeche, and part of Chiapas, the peninsula of Yucatan and a part of eastern Oaxaca. The mean temperature ranges from 77 degrees to 82 degrees F, seldom falling below 60 degrees, but often rising to 105 degrees, and in the sultry districts of Vera Cruz, Guaymas and Acapulco to and even above 110 degrees. The rainfall is heavy in the south, except Yucatan, but diminishes gradually toward the north, and is on the Pacific and Gulf of California coasts it almost disappears. These lowland districts are densely forested in the south, except Yucatan, and large areas are covered with streams, swamps and lagoons, the abode of noxious insects, pestilential fevers and dysentery. On both coasts yellow fever epidemics appear at frequent intervals. The great fertility of these regions and the marvellous wealth of their forests are irresistible attractions to industrial and commercial enterprise, but their unhealthiness restricts development and is a bar to any satisfactory increase in population. The heavy rainfall on the Gulf coast, however, which reaches a maximum of 90 to 100 in in the Huasteco district of Vera Cruz, causes the flooding of large areas of lowlands, and will make improvement very difficult. (From The Encyclopaedia Britannica.)

Insects

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "The insect fauna of Mexico covers a very wide range of genera and species which, like all other forms of animal life, is largely made up of migratory types. To the traveller, the most conspicuous among the Mexican insects, perhaps, are the butterflies, beetles, ants, and the myriads of mosquitoes, midges, fleas and chinchies. Among the mosquitoes, which are extraordinarily numerous in some of the hot lowland districts, are the species credited with the spread of malarial and yellow fevers. The midges are even more numerous than the mosquitoes. In pleasing contrast to such pests are the butterflies of all sizes and colors, beetles of an inconceivable variety of size, shape and coloration, and ants of widely dissimilar appearance and habits.

Tropical Trees

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "Among the more important and conspicuous trees of these tropical forests are mahogany, rosewood, Spanish cedar, castillas, cedars, rubber, palms of many species, guayacan, logwood, brazilwood, palo blanco, the cascalote and divi-divi trees, the 'zapote chico' from which 'chicle' is extracted, 'zapote prieto', wild fig, myrtles, bamboo and many of the types already mentioned in connection with the sub-tropical zone. Of the 14 species of trees and 'cabinets-woods', 17 of oil-bearing plants, and over 60 medicinal plants and dyewoods indigenous to Mexico, by far the larger part are represented in the 'tierras calientes. Among the well-known forest products of this zone are arnotto, jalap, 'picaocahuana', sarsaparilla, rubber, orchids and a great variety of gums.

Plants and Plant Products

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "Of the economic plants and products of Mexico, the list is surprisingly long and interesting. The cereals, fruits and vegetables of Europe have been introduced, and some of them have done well. Wheat is widely cultivated and a considerable part of the population depend upon it for their bread. Indian corn, which is believed to have had its origin in Mexico, also provides food for a large part of the population. 'Tunas' or cactus fruit, red peppers, 'zapotes' (the fruit of various trees), 'arrayan', 'ciruelas' or Mexican plum 'guavas', 'huamuchil' tamarind, 'acatoes', bananas, plantains, pineapples, grapes, oranges, lemons, limes, granadillas, chirimoyas, 'mamees', coconuts, cacao, mangoes, olives, gourds and melons are among the fruits of the country, and rice, wheat, Indian corn, beans, yams, sweet potatoes, onions and tomatoes are among its better-known food products. The food of the common people is chiefly made up of Indian corn, beans, red peppers and 'tomatoes'. There are about 50 known species of beans in Mexico and Central America, and probably a dozen species of red peppers which are used both in seasoning and in making chili sauce. The tomato or 'tomate' mentioned in the 'Physalis ixocarpa', sometimes called the 'tomate de la tierra' and the 'Mexican ground-cherry', which is used with red peppers to make 'salsas', is not commonly found in Mexico, but as a flavoring for soups and other dishes.

The Marvelous Flora

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) "No brief description can adequately portray the marvellous variety and magnificence of the flora of the tierras calientes. Its forests are not composed of one or a few dominating species, as in the cold temperate zone, but of countless genera and species closely interwoven together, a confused mass of giant trees, lianas and epiphytes struggling to reach the sunlight. This struggle for existence has completely changed the habits of many of the plants, and the palm and the cactus into climbing species, and even some normal species into epiphytes.

Manufactures

(From The Encyclopaedia Britannica) Although usually described as a non-manufacturing country, Mexico meets a great part of its home demand for manufactured goods, where the raw material can be produced in the country. Brown, or muscovado sugar (of course, from the natives), is still made by primitive methods all over the country. This product is largely consumed in the 'tierras calientes'. An important branch of the textile industry is the manufacture of 'zarate' (called 'panchos' in other parts of Spanish America), a blanket slit in the center, and worn in place of a coat by men of the lower classes.

A WONDERFUL NIGHT.

The opening performance of Atlanta's fifth season of grand opera, like a picture from the "Arabian Nights," was a vivid presentation of the prowess of an American city, ashes fifty years ago.

The vast assemblage that heard "Manon" last evening was perhaps the most representative ever gathered under a southern roof since the civil war.

Every social and civic and commercial element in Atlanta and surrounding cities and states was represented in the thronged Auditorium.

The appreciation of the audience was a wonderful tribute to the stars. Of the thousands assembled every one seemed to be delighted with the success of the performance, which was in many respects one of the most notable presented in the long list of the Metropolitan's opera bills in Atlanta.

The success of last night's performance is a guarantee that this, the fifth, will undoubtedly be the most successful of the Metropolitan's engagements in Atlanta. It is confidentially predicted that the seat sales for the seven performances of the week will go considerably beyond the $100,000 mark, eclipsing the record of last year by perhaps $19,000, and showing that the annual engagements of the Metropolitan is attracting more widespread interest each succeeding year throughout the south.

It is worthy of note that from practically every southern city advance seat reservations were made this year, the entire southeastern section of the union, covering the territory south of Louisville, east of New Orleans and west of Richmond, being liberally represented in the attendance last night, and that promised for the week.

What a wonderful city is Atlanta! And no wonder the Metropolitan Opera company has committed itself to the proposition announced by Mr. Kahn a year ago that those who hereafter wanted to see the Metropolitan grand opera in this country could do so "only in two places—New York and Atlanta."

What was an experiment four years ago has been so thoroughly tested as to be a guaranteed success now. Not only Atlanta, but the whole south, has responded so liberally to the announcements of the Metropolitan's annual coming for the past five seasons that the event may be regarded as a fixed one for each recurring year.

The city never made a better investment and the management of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company never lent their efforts to a better purpose, for the broadening effect of these annual engagements in appealing as they do to the heart, the better instincts and the love of art and music of the people of a great section, cannot be otherwise than exceedingly beneficial.

MARKETS FOR GEORGIA BEEF.

Commending a recent Constitution editorial deprecating the shipping of native breeding cattle out of the state, J. J. Farroll, secretary of the Bainbridge board of trade, declares that Atlanta and other Georgia cities can help stem the tide by ceasing to discriminate against Georgia beef.

The primary trouble is that Georgia farmers do not as a rule raise the sort of cattle available for abattoir purposes. They confine their sires almost exclusively to the native stock, and the result is that we have an endless procession of "scrub" or below-market cattle that do not approximately grade with the western product.

A perfect illustration is found in the case of the White Provision company, on the outskirts of Atlanta. Headed by an energetic young Atlantian, W. H. White, Jr., this company has erected one of the most modern and model packing houses in the country. The clamor of the promoters is for Georgia cattle, sheep and hogs. Their interest in promoting the native stock is not sentimental. They want to save freight rates and make more profits.

But until very recently it has been almost impossible for this packing house to secure enough native cattle with which to operate. It has been driven to import shipments from Tennessee, Alabama and other points.

The true remedy, as The Constitution originally pointed out, lies in a state-wide propaganda for the production of standard beef cattle; and for such far-sighted co-operation between bankers, merchants and farmers as will broaden the farmer's basis of collateral outward from all-cotton and give him time and facilities to revive the cattle industry.

Signs of an era of this nature already are at hand. When it materializes, Georgia will be one of the foremost cattle states in the country.

MEN WHO FEED ATLANTA.

In conformance with the custom inaugurated last year the Retail Grocers and Butchers' association has passed resolutions getting aside Wednesday of each week as a half holiday, effective June 10.

Up to last summer, the retail grocery stores and butcher shops of Atlanta had comprised the one exception among the local industries observing a weekly half-holiday.

The men engaged in the retail grocery and butcher business work often from 5 o'clock in the morning until 8 and 10 at night.

No other city occupation compares with this in demand upon time and nervous energy.

Last summer the association, after full investigation and a public mass meeting, fixed on Wednesday as a convenient half-holiday.

Saturday was eliminated, for the reason that closing at noon on that day meant that buying would have to be done for a full two days. The grocers and butchers of Atlanta were not willing to expose their customers to that hardship.

With Wednesday, mid-week, it was different. A half-holiday then would impose the least inconvenience on the housewives of Atlanta. The plan worked admirably last year, and it is no reason why this year would not repeat, since the changing of a long-standing custom is a matter of education only and the ice already has been broken.

The co-operation of the housewives generally of Atlanta is imperative if these hard-worked men and women are to enjoy a summer weekly half-holiday, as do the majority of the city's workers in other lines. The Constitution is sure the practical demonstration of last year will find an equally enthusiastic duplication this year.

GO WITH THE CIVIC TIDE.

The tide of civic sentiment in Atlanta is flowing irresistibly to the success of the greater Grady hospital bond issue.

That fact is manifest from the news columns of every Atlanta paper, from the emphatic talk you hear from every leader of community opinion in Atlanta.

Atlanta never yet has failed in intelligent grasping of a crisis, once its nature was disclosed.

Greater Grady is no exception! Every element that has worked in harmony for the upbuilding of this city recognizes significance of the need for greater Grady.

Each element has placed its influence solidly behind the campaign for the bond issue that will fill that need.

The doctors. The business men. The real estate men. The property owners. The club women, embracing all walks of life.

The ministers, of all creeds. Organized labor. Responsible negro leaders who know how the death rate crosses the race line.

All and singular of these influences are for greater Grady.

There may be a few opposed, for various reasons, to a bond issue. Some people are opposed to anything—to everything. But even these have not let out a whimper that would positively identify them.

There is only scattered opposition to greater Grady.

There always is a fractional minority opposition in every city to every movement for civic uplift.

That minority vanishes before the "Atlanta Spirit." That is what has made Atlanta!

So many factional governments in Mexico you can't march a mile without "intriguing" somebody.

Mexico first. The remnant of office-seekers will have to do the watchful waiting act.

If the federals try any more of that over-the-border shooting they'll find the place that broke out in Texas long ago.

Congress is willing to work itself to death for its country.

College boys are anxious for war. A few football teams would cut a wide swath in Mexico.

With such names as Guadalupe, Ixmiquilpan, Xochimilco and Zacapaxtla, the situation becomes more complicated.

Just from Georgia The Morning Hills.

The morning hills, high-crowned with light, Are calling: "Come away! Gone are the dim dreams of the Night. The world has found the Day!"

And sing the rivers and the hills: "Come to the blessed morning hills!"

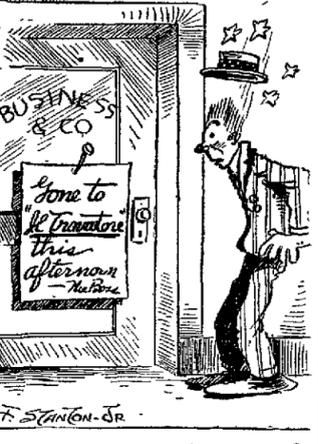

They wait us welcome from afar, Light's victory is won; They know the mysteries of each star. The secrets of the sun; Glad welcome to the valley thrills: "Come to the morning of the hills!"

Night's sorrows vanish and we win The blessedness of Peace; A world that takes all heaven in—Life's storms and thunders cease. And hearts are lifted, as God wills, To meet Him on the morning hills.

Work Saved Him. Will Levington Comfort has this personal word of "The Blessedness of Work," in a contribution to The Craftsman:

"I would have been dead long since, and detestable in every detail before the passing, but for the blessedness of work. I have emerged from hideous dissipation—baking puddles, as it were, seemingly for the merciful bullet as the insect tortured beast loose in the field to die. Again and again have I been so, yet, by God's good plan, I found myself once more here, at the machine, as now. I have felt my own body resume life, its wastes and poisons relaxing their death hold, answering the movements which mean life. I have sensed the devils leaving my brain and prevented their return—through this godly guardian, work. Every utterance worth the making from this time on here, at the machine, it could possibly do for another. I love my work. As servant of it I am here, on my way, and all is well!"

Distracting Noise

"They March to the Billville Bands."

The Billville boys are drilled—The pride of all the lands. "Step to the right, And on to the left!" They march to the Billville bands.

For the bands are playin' "Dixie." And willin' hearts and hands To a high-roarin' Will march away— Keep step to the Billville bands!

Three cheers for the boys of Billville! Each patriot understands When the flag's in sight 'Tis a joy to fight— To march to the Billville bands!

It's hard to beat the opera of the birds, with a front seat on a pine log in a theater with a roof of blossoms.

In springtime the Angels come to picnic on the hills, and they read the dreams of the valleys, and sing the welcome chorus of the birds to the windows of the blue.

The weary world-travelers hear the far-off music of life, and they sing along the way to the sweet vales of rest.

Not in the rear the poets lag— About the land they're ravin'. All sorts of poems to the Flag. An' still the Flag occupies! It's just because the Flag don't know That all o' them are singin' so!

The Songbirds' Sanctuary. The Uncle Remus Memorial Booklet, Mrs. Myrtle Lockett-Avarty's story of the life of the one-time master and noble philosopher of "The Wren's Nest," has received high praise from critics and lovers of literature everywhere. It is a heartfelt tribute from Georgia woman to that group of Georgia women and their leader who have preserved "The Wren's Nest" as a memorial to Joel Chandler Harris. It is a very characteristic souvenir of Atlanta—a beautiful story of "A Bird Sanctuary."

Spring Voices. Voices of sweet springtime O'er rose-gardens ringing, And from the old mulberry tree The sweetest music comes to me— A mockingbird is singing.

Ready for the Fray. A patriotic citizen writes to The Adams Enterprise:

"This is to notify my friends and supporters that having organized a volunteer brigade of twenty-five patriotic citizens I shall resign from the race for coroner, in the hope that I'll be appointed colonel, or captain, or major, and held myself in readiness to move on Mexico at a moment's notice. The call of my country is stronger than the call of a little 2-by-4 office."

The Dream. Beneath a solemn sky of gray— No starry lamps in view, The Night was dreaming of the Day; God made the dream come true.

All Along the Line With George Fitch

PATAGONIA is the name given to the tall of South America which is about as useful as the "tail" of a porterhouse steak. It is a little larger than the state of Texas and is not overworked. Although it has been used for almost 400 years there is still room for the modern to edge in and take up a valley or county or congressional district for a door yard. The population has never been accurately counted because the census enumerators generally wore out a pair of shoes between each house and abandoned the job in disgust, but it is believed that if the Patagonians were to rally as one man they would be sufficiently numerous to make a first-class audience at a big league baseball game.

Patagonia is usually supposed to be the home of giant savages who eat the rash visitor in a careless and casual manner. This is not the country a bad name and no body needs it for a summer resort though the temperature seldom goes above eighty. There are savages in Patagonia, but four hundred years of contact with civilized people has been too hard on them and they only number about 100. As the country is 1,500 miles long by 800 miles wide it would not be hard to dodge these people even if they were not so busy dodging the white man.

Patagonia was formed by nature in an extravagant and careless mood. She scattered mountains over half of it and debris over much of the remainder. Half of the country is only fit to be sold at long range to restless farmers by eloquent land agents and why farmers do not buy is a mystery. They seized the golden opportunity to pick this stuff up at one cent an acre, payable in installments and sell it for fine wheat and four-and-a-half land is a mystery. It is so unlike them.

Patagonia belongs mostly to Argentine and can be reached by dropping overboard on the way of Cape Horn and swimming in the northern part of the sea. The country and the hardy settlers who are trying to make it boom are as lonely as an ex-republican boss in congress.

BOWLING

When Englishmen come to this country, they wonder out what Americans do for exercise during the long, cold winter months. And unless they get a chance to hang on a street car strap or visit a bowling alley, they never find out.

Bowling is the great American winter game, next to discussing baseball averages. The game consists of trying to knock down ten wooden pins with a large ball. The pins are set in a flock at the end of an alley which looks like a tunnel. The ball is rolled by the man who tries to roll a new Jerusalem to the man who tries to roll the first time. The ball is of wood or hard rubber, and is as large as a pine forest. However, the man who stands up at the end of the tenth frame with a full count to get in order to win for his team and only a single pin standing frequently feels that he is shooting at a knitting needle. The game is possible to make a score of 300 with twelve shots. It is also possible to accumulate 65 pins with twenty-four shots. The game is much more frequently done. There are only a few men in this country and they are usually pointed out to visitors by their admiring friends.

Bowling is full of strikes like baseball, but it is a more peaceful game. The bowler swings his arm and sends the ball flying to smash his teeth wildly and attempt to assassinate the umpire with a cruel word. Bowling is also full of "spares," "splits," "triplades," "spreads," "pudges" and good nature. It is most noted for the latter product. Bowling is the best natured game in the world. Only a few men are able to get into the game. The fellow fellows while bowling and the ought to be quieted for by diphtheria. The good nature in bowling comes from the fact that there is nothing to dispute over. A game doesn't even need a referee. After a man has bowled ten frames with a total score of 300 men in life-long friends. If bowling could only be introduced into politics in some manner like the primary and other improvements, it would take away much of the hard feeling now existing.

Bowling is said to be a cure for appendicitis and other diseases of the digestion. If it is true the bowling ball is the largest pill now in medical use.

URGES PEACE RATHER THAN WAR VICTORY

Editor Constitution: May it not be well when we seem to be on the threshold of a great war to stop and take the second thought? And if we do this we may see that the Mexican situation is a world affair. It is a world issue if it can be brought about by the mediation of the three South American nations that have offered their service; but if it cannot be, what is to hinder a few of the great nations of the world joining with them and with us in demanding not only a proper recognition of our honor, but that Mexico's own fratricidal war shall cease and that foundations be laid for a responsible and reputable government?

There is much reason for such a course as this, for while the political and commercial interest of the United States is predominant, her interest is shared with other nations. The commercial interests in Mexico of Great Britain or even of France are greater than those of all the South American nations. The investments in Mexico of $1,057,000,000; Mexican investments are quoted as being $792,000,000; English, $221,000,000; French, $143,000,000; all others, $118,000,000.

In the year 1900 the United States cooperated with Japan, Russia, Germany, Great Britain and France in the expedition sent to quell the Boxer in China. Seeing that other nations have large investments in Mexico, why would it not be well to invite them to join us in settling Mexico's problem? Mexico's recent this interference, but the interests other nations have there demand it. Nor would it conflict with the Monroe Doctrine, as it would have no purpose of conquering territory upon this continent.

This international course is suggested only on the ground that the present one has failed, and that the only way to the world that though we are strong enough to maintain our honor by war, we are wise enough to win by methods of peace.

J. J. HALL, Secretary Georgia Peace Society.

The Power of Pain.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Have you ever been to the School of Pain? If you never have, your education is lacking. Pain is the great teacher that makes it really an Education.

Pain modulates the Heart and compels the Body to rest. It is subject to a Higher Power, after all.

Pain brings out Sweetness of character. Pain is the great teacher that makes it really an Education. Pain not only takes hold upon your Body but also, at times upon your Mind. Mental Pain is more terrible than any other pain. Pain for every physical factor and member must sooner or later pay price to it.

DAILY GRIST From the STATES POLITICAL GRIND

"RUFF" HUTCHENS' ENTRY THE TALK OF STATE POLITICIANS MONDAY. The virtual announcement of "Ruff" Hutchens as a candidate to succeed the late A. O. Bacon as United States senator was the political sensation of Monday, and everywhere one went it was the sole topic of conversation.

Mr. Hutchens has always been closely aligned with the so-called Joe Brown faction of the democratic party in Georgia, and has been a strong personal and political friend of Governor Slaton, who is also making the race. Therefore, the fact that he is going to be a candidate is all the more surprising.

Mr. Hutchens was a member of the prison commission and more recently managed the Oscar Underwood campaign for president in Georgia. His work in this connection brought him into national prominence.

For a time it looked as if the gubernatorial contest would overshadow the senatorial race on account of the number of candidates in the field, but at the present time it would seem that fully as many candidates for senator will be in the field as there will be candidates in the running for the governor's chair.

In fact it would appear that politicians with senatorial aspirations are more numerous than those seeking to be governor. The proportion to date is as three to two. There are four openly announced candidates for the United States senate, with two more who may publish their announcements at any moment—Slaton, Felder, Hardwick and Cooper. With W. D. Uphaw and "Ruff" Hutchens in the latter category, J. Randolph Anderson and L. G. Hardman have announced for governor—that is, formally announced and a host of aspirants are almost persuaded.

Some half a dozen or more politicians are expected to arrive in the city early this week and the crop of openly avowed candidates may be materially augmented at any moment.

J. A. J. HENDERSON IN THE RACE FOR CONGRESS. ELEVENTH DISTRICT. Valdosta, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—Hon. J. A. J. Henderson, of Ocala, will be a candidate for congress from the eleventh district. This may be definitely and positively stated, in view of developments of the past week, though Mr. Henderson will probably not make a formal announcement of his candidacy under ten days or two weeks.

He spent Friday in Valdosta looking into the sentiment here and expressed himself as greatly pleased over the reception given him. Mr. Henderson has already been into practically every county in the district, but stated that he would make another visit to the eastern and northern tier of counties before making a formal announcement.

It is understood from an authoritative source that neither Judge Quincy, of Douglas, nor Judge Parker, of Waycross, will enter the race this year, confirming the forecast made in The Constitution last Sunday that the field will be left to Mr. Henderson and Congressman Randall Walker. Hon. W. L. Crenshaw, of Valdosta, has given out no intimation of his intention, but the impression has been strengthened that he will not run.

Mr. Henderson's friends claim that both Judge Quincy and Judge Parker will be active supporters of Mr. Henderson. Congressman Walker's friends all over the district are striving themselves actively in his behalf. The striking events in congress will make it impracticable for Mr. Walker to leave Washington for many weeks, possibly, but in the meantime his friends are looking after his "fences," and taking care of his interests.

Governor Slaton's address to the people of Georgia, setting forth the principles on which he will make the race for the senate, was received with favor throughout the section. The outlook is that he will carry Lowndes by a very heavy vote, while he is strong in all of the central south Georgia counties.

Mr. Felder and Mr. Hardwick are strangers in a sense to the people of this section. It would take remarkable campaigning to overcome the popularity and prestige of Governor Slaton.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETED FOR FLOYD COUNTY PRIMARY

Rome, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been perfected for the Floyd county primary, which takes place on Tuesday, April 28.

There are four unopposed candidates: W. J. Nunnally, for judge of Floyd county court; D. W. Simmons, for clerk of Floyd superior court; T. B. Owens, for treasurer, and R. L. Brown, for surveyor. The other candidates are: For coroner, L. D. E. Aycock; John W. Miller, for county commissioner; A. O. third district, J. Scott Davis and W. O. Connor; for county commissioner from fourth district, T. C. Griffin, T. H. Mull and J. V. Sullivan; for tax collector, John M. Vandiver and L. G. Todd, for tax receiver, J. Tom Jenkins, T. B. Hendricks and Zack Salmon; for sheriff, J. T. Barron and W. G. Dunahoo. All of these races are hotly contested.

CHATTOOGA NOMINEE FOR SHERIFF TO BE OPPOSED IN ELECTION. Summerville, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—J. W. Alexander, nominee of the democratic primary of Chattooga county for sheriff, will have opposition in the election to be held in October. T. M. Anderson has announced his candidacy in opposition to the nominee. Alexander defeated two other candidates in last week's primary.

MANY CONNECTED WITH UNIVERSITY RUNNING FOR STATE OFFICES. Athens, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—Friends of the University at Athens will have several candidates to select from—among those associated in one way or another with the institution. Dr. Hardman, candidate for governor, is a member of the board of trustees of the State College of Agriculture; Judge N. E. Harris is head of the Tech board and ex-officio member of the board of trustees of the university; Governor Slaton, candidate for the senate, is a member of the board of trustees of the university also.

Hon. John Holder, candidate for congress from the ninth, was here Friday, remained over his train time and then wanted to get back to Jefferson—only two minutes and a mile between him and the departure of the Gainesville Midland. Judge McWhorter suggested that he "borrow" an automobile from the number parked in the street—which he did, picking up by chance a young man who could operate it. The trip to the station was made in record time.

Meantime the owner of the machine found it gone and reported the "theft" to the police. As he went to show the police where the machine had stood—it was visible—having been returned while the owner went for an officer.

The owner of the machine is a candidate also—O. H. Arnold, Jr., offering as a running mate to J. F. Rhodes for the legislature from Clarke. He has two brothers in the legislature and is making a hard fight—as he sympathized with Mr. Holder, the former speaker, and was glad to have served him even "unknowingly."

WANTS CITIES TO BUY NATIVE GEORGIA BEEF

Editor Constitution: Allow me to congratulate you on your recent editorial, the "Wrong Cattle Policy."

As you say, this is one of the most serious problems that confronts Georgia today. With meat as scarce as it is it is very wrong to sell breeding cattle. However, you folks in the big cities can stop this to a large extent by providing a good market for native Georgia hogs.

When a city like Atlanta discriminates against Georgia raised hogs you cannot blame Georgia farmers for being willing to sell their cattle and hogs outside of the state, no matter what the ultimate result may be. It is a question of present livelihood, rather than future economics. However, when great papers like yours are awakened to the urgency of the question, its solution is only a matter of a short time.

Keep up the good fight. We commercial secretaries appreciate what you are doing, as, indeed, do the whole people of Georgia. The cities seem to have lost sight of the development of the country, and today the question in Georgia is not one of diversification, but market for products already diversified.

The farmer is ahead of the market problem. BAINBRIDGE BOARD OF TRADE. J. J. FARRELL, Secretary. Bainbridge, Ga.

Mrs. Hickey's Luncheon.

Mrs. James E. Hickey gave a beautiful luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club yesterday in honor of Mrs. Stuart Dent of Washington, D. C. Her guest list was thirty-six and was seated about a round table, which had beautiful decorations in the deep pink of the Chatney rose.

In the center was a circular plateau of roses showered in swanonia, while from the center arose a tall vase from which there fell clusters of roses from a shower bouquet.

Bouquets held the roses and swanonia, and their handles tied with bows of pink tulle. The candlesticks had pink shades, and the bonbons were in that color.

Mrs. Hickey wore a smart toilet in brown chiffon trimmed in taffeta, the same color. Her dress wore a wistaria crepe gown embroidered, and her hat was trimmed in shaded wistaria.

The guests were: Mrs. W. S. Elkin, Mrs. Boling Jones, Mrs. Harrison Bickler, Mrs. W. C. Boyer, Mrs. Reed Hobson, Mrs. Kenneth Murchison of New York, Mrs. Henry Tanner, Mrs. Frank Ellis, Mrs. Huggins, Mrs. Charles Sisson, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. W. D. Ellis, Jr., Mrs. Albert Howell, Mrs. Robert Alston, Mrs. Robert Smythe, Mrs. O'Neill of Charleston, Mrs. Thomas B. SHOWERS PROMISED FOR ATLANTA DURING THE NEXT 48 HOURS

The presence of a moderate storm over Oklahoma and the absence of high pressure on the south Atlantic coast give promise of showers. In conjunction with the shower system, most of the rain will probably occur on Tuesday in the form of moderate thunder showers. The temperature will be in the 70s and 80s on Tuesday, but it will become cooler after the rain. A considerable fall in temperature will occur Tuesday night, and degrees will be about 10 degrees lower than Tuesday morning. The winds will be fresh southerly, becoming westerly Wednesday.

MANY GOOD ATTRACTIONS AT ATHENS CHAUTAUQUA
Athens, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—Under canvas, seating 2,000, the Athens chautauqua opened its first session ever held here today, with prospects of a great attendance. It is probably the largest series of events

SOLID YEAR OF MISERY

After a Solid Year of Misery; Bordering on Hopelessness, a Grateful Change Comes of a Sudden.

Monticello, Ga.—Miss Tommie Bowen, of this town, says: "I suffered for one long year with serious womanly troubles—and it became so bad that I thought no remedy could cure my case. I was nervous, at times, and had a sick headache so bad, that I could hardly bend over. I tried two different kinds of medicine but they did me no good. I then began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I hadn't used it but one day before I felt a great change. I continued taking it, and I know it saved my life. I believe it is worth its weight in gold. I hope every lady, who suffers from womanly trouble, will try Cardui. I praise it to every lady I meet, and my sister also recommends it as the best of medicines for women." Do you suffer from any of the numerous ailments so common to women, such as headache, backache, side-ache, nervousness, sleeplessness, etc.? Have you that tired, weak, worn-out feeling? If so, we urge you to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has not only relieved thousands of women suffering from serious womanly ailments, but has also been found an excellent tonic for that tired-out feeling. Get a bottle of Cardui today.

of a similar nature ever planned for a Georgia town. The Redpath bureau is furnishing the talent and the high school of the city is sponsoring the enterprise. Tuesday's lecturers are Dr. G. R. Wallace, Everett Kemp and Dr. Edward Amberg, Orl. Wednesday, Dr. Wallace and Wallace Bruce Amberg. The musical events of the two days are to be the Welch-Christensen-Baker company, the Harmony Concert company and the Dunbar Bell Players and Solo quartet; the Ben Grant players appear Wednesday evening in "Twelfth Night" and the rest of the week has even more prominent entertainers and lecturers and companies of musical folk.

TWO WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chicago, Ill.—"I must thank you with all my heart for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to go to my doctor for pills and remedies and they did not help me. I had headaches and could not eat, and the doctor claimed I had female trouble and must have an operation. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it and feel fine. A lady said one day, 'Oh, I feel so tired all the time and have headache.' I said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' and she did and feels fine now."—Mrs. M. R. Karschnick, 1428 N. Paulina Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Other Case.
Dayton, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of pains in my side that I had for years and which doctors' medicines failed to relieve. It has certainly saved me from an operation. I will be glad to assist you by a personal letter to any woman in the same condition."—Mrs. J. W. Sherer, 126 Cass St., Dayton, Ohio.
If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN IN MOST HANDSOME GOWNS DISTINGUISH THE FIRST NIGHT AT GRAND OPERA

Beautiful Scene at Auditorium Monday Night

Atlanta's crowning glory—her women—did their part in that union of forces which make the artistic whole of Grand Opera. Their beauty, their brilliancy and their toilets made dazzling the audience greeting the premiere of Atlanta's opera season, 1914. Every box held a picture of interest and grace; everywhere in the dress circle, in the main body of the house, in the galleries, was there the beauty and the chivalry that gives social life its zest, and the piquancy and interest that "fine feathers" and jewels give an assembly. Silver-haired ladies in revered black silks, old lace and pearls set in onyx were there. The school girl, still wearing a white gown and blue sash as her best, was there. The debutante, in her first satin gown and corsage bouquet, was there. The smart young woman, with her shapely shoulders, and her chiffon gown was painted in roses. Apple blossoms adorned the corsage of a veritable Hebe, who wore green silk and tulle, and there were French roses, and gardenias and orchids enough in the bouquets worn and carried to embower the shrine of fairies.

GOVERNOR SLATON'S BOX.

In Governor Slaton's box was Mrs. Slaton, radiantly pretty in a turquoise blue gown brocaded in roses and gold foliage. The corsage of tulle was overlaid in gold lace, and she wore a corsage bouquet of violets. With her was Mrs. William D. Grant, handsome in black satin with draperies in pointed acorn lace. With them were Miss Dorothy Hebert of New Orleans, and Dr. Willis Ragan. Miss Hebert wore white tulle sparkling with silver and crystal beads, and she carried an armful of American Beauty roses. She was one of the most popular of the debutantes in New Orleans this winter, and was one of the maids of honor at the Comus ball. She is the guest of honor in the Capital City club afterwards she and Miss Morgan and Miss Margaret Montgomery were at a supper given by Mr. Paul Octave Hebert and chaperoned by Mrs. Slaton. Miss Montgomery was the "Queen of Mithras" at the ball given by that organization during Mardi Gras. She is with Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Airey at the Georgian Terrace, and wore white satin and tulle last evening.

COLONEL PEEL'S BOX.

Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel entertained Madame Ober, Mr. Coppens and Mr. Guard, and they had many visitors. Mrs. Peel wore an elegant toilet in white brocade satin. It was trimmed in rose point lace, and she wore pearls and diamonds. Mrs. Delos Bodgett was the guest of honor in Colonel Ragan's box, and she was visited by many of her Atlanta friends who knew her as Daisy Peck. She was dressed in white tulle and white satin brocade embroidered in silver. Her charming young daughter wore white silk and tulle. Miss Julia Murphy, who with Messrs. James and Ralph Ragan completed the party, wore a dainty toilet in pink chiffon with draperies of white lace. Mrs. Robert J. Lowry wore her golden wedding gown, a beautiful gown of white satin brocade embroidered in gold. Mrs. E. P. McBurney, her guest, wore white charmeuse brocaded in silver and crystals, and a necklace of diamonds. Mrs.

Lawrence D. Tyson, of Knoxville, wore lavender brocade satin. Miss Tyson, one of the beauties of the assembly, wore white chiffon and lace. No woman in the assembly was more admired than Mrs. Kenneth Murchison, of New York, who was in the box with her niece, Miss Catherine Ellis, Mr. John D. Little and Mr. Dan McDougall. She wore a Frenchy toilet of flesh-colored satin with draperies of old blue embroidered in silver. Miss Ellis wore white brocade satin, the design defined in pearls and crystals. The corsage was completed by a little jacket of crystals. Mrs. Kelt Evans was being welcomed by her friends after her trip abroad. She wore a Parisian toilet of blue tulle and white, the corsage trimmed in brown tulle, with white diamonds and emeralds. In the party with her were Mrs. Evans, Miss Harriet Calhoun, Miss Virginia Rowland and Mr. Stewart Witham and Mr. Eugene Haynes. Mrs. Kelt Evans was being welcomed by her friends after her trip abroad. She wore a Parisian toilet of blue tulle and white, the corsage trimmed in brown tulle, with white diamonds and emeralds. In the party with her were Mrs. Evans, Miss Harriet Calhoun, Miss Virginia Rowland and Mr. Stewart Witham and Mr. Eugene Haynes.

Mrs. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson entertained the guests. Mrs. Barker, Dr. and Mrs. Westmoreland in their box. Mrs. Barker wore a beautiful toilet in white brocade chiffon and point de ferre lace. Mrs. and Mrs. Emory Winship and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemar, of Macon, had the charming Miss Casey, of California, with them, and their box was the center of the night parties between the acts of the opera. Mrs. Winship wore a handsome one, combining white charmeuse and lace and embroidery in silver. Mrs. Lemar wore a gown of white tulle with overdrapes of blue embroidered in threads of gold. Miss Casey wore a white satin and tulle gown with a pink tulle gown trimmed in chiffon. Mrs. and Mrs. Spalding, Jr., was beautifully gowned in white. Mrs. Francis O'Neill, of Charleston, wore white brocade chiffon. Mrs. Robert A. Smyth wore a white tulle gown, the corsage finished with a sequin of pale green, embroidered in silver. Mrs. Henry S. Jackson wore a beautiful gown in rose colored satin, the corsage embroidered in silver. Mrs. Edgar and Mrs. King were charming in a Parisian gown of white satin with draperies of tulle, the corsage embroidered in pearls, and finished with a touch of blue.

LOVELY MISS CALHOUN.
Miss Harriett Calhoun wore a Frenchy toilet of orchid colored tulle brocade. The corsage of tulle was trimmed in orchids. Mrs. J. E. Hockaday wore a gray satin gown with overdrapes of net embroidered silver and tulle. Mrs. Frank Hawkins wore a becoming toilet in fine orchid shades. The skirt of white tulle draped on tulle of a deeper tone. The corsage of tulle over flesh-colored chiffon was finished with a touch of blue. Mrs. Frank S. Ellis wore a handsome toilet in white and silver brocade, the corsage embroidered in silver and crystals. Mrs. Hurecamp wore a white satin gown draped in black tulle and point de ferre lace. Mrs. Ella Wright Wilcox wore an every colored gown with tulle and draperies of coral colored chiffon, and shadow lace of cream color showing pink threads. The giraffe ring fish was of coral color and gold. Her wrap of white embroidered crepe was lined with coral color. Mrs. Phiney Calhoun's beauty was accentuated by a toilet in black chiffon and tulle, the corsage embroidered in brilliants. Mrs. William Kaiser wore a white tulle gown with airy draperies of tulle embroidered in silver. Mrs. M. K. Arris wore a gown of white and blue, with tulle draperies of white chiffon painted in a design of orange blossoms. Mrs. Alexander Smith wore a black satin gown with corsage of white tulle and crystal embroidery. Mrs. Robert Alston wore a smart gown in jonquil yellow silk combined with chiffon and lace. Mrs. Alexander King wore a white satin gown veiled in black and white lace. Mrs. James L. Dickey wore a black satin gown of graceful fashion, the corsage of lace over flesh colored chiffon.

PRETTY TOILETS.
Mrs. William Tilt wore a pretty toilet in apricot colored silk with tulle draperies. Mrs. Esther Smith wore a pale blue tulle gown with tulle draperies. Mrs. Walter Brooks wore a beautiful toilet in lavender silk with draperies of old English lace; her wrap of cream-colored brocade was gold-threaded, and in draped fashion. Mrs. Frank Inman wore pale pink satin trimmed in gold-threaded net and lace. Mrs. W. J. Morrison wore white tulle silk made in Frenchy fashion, finished with a wide band of white flowers in a Dresden design. Mrs. John Patterson, of North Carolina, wore a lavender chiffon gown trimmed in lace. Mrs. William T. Newman wore a white lace and satin gown. Mrs. Percy Adams wore a white chiffon cloth gown trimmed in lace. Mrs. Don A. Pardee wore a pale blue tulle gown combined artistically with lace. Mrs. W. D. Manley wore a yellow tulle gown with overdrapes of black and pink roses. Mrs. Harry M. Atkinson wore a mignonette green satin with overdrapes of black thread lace. Miss Max Atkinson wore white tulle, trimmed in black tulle and pink roses. Mrs. Milton Dargan wore a white charmeuse satin gown, trimmed in black lace and jet. Miss Helen Dargan wore a white brocade charmeuse, the corsage embroidered in crystal. Mrs. Harry English was receiving a cordial welcome from her many friends. She was becomingly gowned in black tulle embroidered in silver. Mrs. W. S. Elkin wore a French gown of jonquil yellow satin, the corsage and draperies of tulle embroidered in opal-tinted beads. Mrs. H. E. Harman wore a white satin gown, the corsage embroidered in crystal. Miss Dorothy Harman wore a white tulle gown trimmed in midnight blue tulle. Mrs. Howard Bucknell wore a silver blue satin gown combined with lace, and the corsage embroidered in crystals. Mrs. Bates Block wore a midnight blue chiffon gown threaded in gold; the corsage of tulle embroidered in gold. Mrs. Shepard Bryan wore a pale blue silk gown trimmed in white lace and pink roses. Miss Margaret Hawkins wore pale pink tulle silk with trimmings of lace and Dresden flowers. Mrs. Richard Johnston wore a becoming toilet in black tulle and satin. Mrs. Frances Carter Divlie wore pale pink satin, with draperies of tulle. Mrs. Spencer Atkinson wore lavender brocade silk. Mrs. Dent of Washington, D. C., the guest of Mrs. Hickey, wore a flesh-colored satin gown, brocaded in gold.

"Gittin' Thar Fustest" Decides the Auto Contest.

A Confederate general with more bluntness than education used to say that battles were won by—"Gittin' thar fustest, with the mostest men."

That also is the secret of success in The Constitution's free distribution contest of autos, player-pianos, cash prizes.

Getting there first with the most votes, what counts.

The Constitution is after circulation.

You are after an auto or a player-piano.

It is easy to get subscribers to The Constitution.

It's the only morning newspaper in the field, and it has back of it forty-six years' prestige in having "delivered the goods."

The Constitution means an accurate newspaper to men and women.

That's why working for The Constitution is an easy matter.

But, it will help you a lot to "Git thar fustest."

IT COSTS NOTHING TO ENTER. NOMINATE YOURSELF, RELATIVE OR FRIEND AND WIN AN AWARD EVERY ENERGETIC ENTRY WILL BE GIVEN A PRIZE

This contest is open to everybody. Any gentleman in the state of Georgia or contiguous territory desiring to enter can do so through the name of his wife, mother, sister, cousin, lady friend, etc. The statement made repeatedly by The Constitution that this contest is open to every woman in its territory does not mean that both men and boys cannot participate in the contest through some lady relative or friend. With this proviso everybody is invited to enter this campaign.

A booklet containing all the rules of the contest, full and complete instructions, subscription rates and voting power of same, as well as a supply of blanks and receipt books, will be mailed upon receipt of nomination or that of a relative or friend today and have your name recorded as a contestant. You can thus begin early in piling up votes and continue until the end, which may win you one of the most valuable prizes in this contest.

CAPTURE THIS BARGAIN WHILE YOU CAN
ONE WEEK AGO, Whitehall street lot sold for $9,300 a foot—broke all records. Why? Because an enormous change is right now going on this great central street of Atlanta. Solid blocks of remodeling and new buildings and regrading. The big jump in values is ON. Just a few blocks further from the $9,000-a-foot lot, near junction of Forsyth, can sell you 60 feet front, 168 deep to railroad track on rear, for direct contact shipping, for $450 a foot. Part cash. Will jump to $750 or $850 a foot. Capture it and make the profit—while you can. Got to sell it NOW.

A SNOW BALL HAS AS MUCH SHOW—
IN A FIREY FURNACE as a poor man has who tries to buy a home on the north side I mean every word I say. A man who hasn't over $200 or $300 in CASH, whose salary is from $100 to $150 per month is acting the fool, he is using BAD JUDGMENT, to say the least of it, if he is trying to buy a $3,000, $4,000 or $5,000 home. But you need not take my advice unless you want to, it makes no difference with me. Out of 100 homes I have sold at Lakewood Heights for the last few years there were only TWO who fell down with their payments. Sold one this week. I have two more bungalows under way on large lots, just off the car line, and they are not BARNES, but BUNGALOWS, go out and take a look at them, get off car at Adair avenue, it will cost you nothing. It might be just what you have been looking for. I don't have to beg anybody to buy my bungalows, there is no use, they sell too fast for that. If you are in earnest and are determined to buy a home that you CAN PAY for, I will be glad to hear from you. Prices $2,100 and $2,200 (the same kind you pay $4,000 for on the north side). Sixteen dollars per month up. Enough said! P. B. Hopkins, 316 Empire Bldg. Ivy 5111.

CHOICE HOME BARGAINS
PEACHTREE CIRCLE—A lovely 9-room home on east front lot 57x200. This is a brick veneer, slate roof, hardwood floors downstairs, furnace, cement basement, driveway and garage. You will never have an opportunity like this again. Is this place worth more money? Price, $14,000.

TONGE DE LEON AVENUE—A 6-room bungalow, modern and very tasty. Lot 50x250. Just think, it is close to North Boulevard. If you buy this place on terms you won't make any mistake. Terms, $1,500.

ANSLEY PARK—Another dandy 8-room 2-story brick veneer, tile roof, hardwood floors and furnace, two tile baths. This house is on a lot 80x150, and about three blocks off car line. Terms, $1,500.

JUNIPER STREET—Another good buy, a dandy 7-room, 2-story home, furnace and sleeping porch. You won't often have a chance to get on this street for this price and terms. $7,800.

THE NUCLEUS of all north side development in and around the Capital City Country Club is Brookhaven itself.

The marvelous scenic effect of the Club's Golf Course and broad expanse of lake as viewed from the only lots for sale fronting the Club Grounds is worthy of your consideration and immediate attention.

Three homes have been started here within the past 30 days. The effect of this impetus will be to drive the price of Brookhaven lots to an eventual premium basis.

Look at your plat of Brookhaven Estates; note the large size lots at prices from $14.00 to $30.00 per foot, on terms of one-fifth cash, balance in four years.
